A Positive, Thoughtful Plan of Action

Taken For Those You Will Someday Leave behind

For too many years, death has been one of our society's most difficult subjects to discuss. Our reluctance to discuss death has resulted in a serious lack of understanding of the many practical and emotional difficulties that arise when a death occurs.

In recent years, this fear has lessened some what. Today, there is a willingness to confront death in a realistic manner. The pre-arranging and pre-funding of funerals with Evans Funeral Home is a common activity. Most importantly, people are sitting down with their families and discussing the practical concerns of a death in the family.

This guide has been designed to help you make your own final arrangements. It will aid you in making these important decisions and give you the opportunity to leave written instructions for your family and your Funeral Director. This process will help reduce your family's emotional stress at the time of need.

Upon completion of this prearrangement form, please return it to Evans Funeral Home. We will copy it and begin a confidential file on your behalf. The original form will be returned to you.
